The Arizona State University Colleges at Lake Havasu City (https://havasu.asu.edu/) opened in the fall of 2012 and focuses exclusively on instruction in high-demand undergraduate degree programs. The ASU Colleges have an extraordinary commitment to student success, community impact, and teaching excellence. All degree programs require a senior capstone project.

The ASU Colleges in Lake Havasu invites applications for the following full-time faculty positions. All positions will be filled at the Lecturer, Senior Lecturer, Principal Lecturer, or visiting faculty level (visiting faculty may not hold the position for more than three years).

Applied Computing: Area of specialization: All areas considered. Teaching responsibilities include lower division major courses such as Introduction to Computer Science, Object-Oriented Programming, Data Structures and Algorithms, Introduction to Systems Programming, as well as upper division courses in area of specialization.

Business/Organizational Leadership: Area of specialization: Management; Marketing; Organizational Behavior; Project Management; Economics. Teaching responsibilities include courses in the Organizational Leadership and the Business-Communication degree programs.

Communication: Area of specialization: Organizational/Business Communication; Mediated Communication and Technology; Communication and Culture; Interpersonal Communication. Teaching responsibilities include lower and upper division major courses as well as courses in area of specialization.

Criminal Justice and Criminology: Area of specialization: All areas considered, including quantitative research methods and data analysis, as well as gender, race, ethnicity and criminal justice. Teaching responsibilities include lower and upper division major courses as well as courses in area of specialization.

Kinesiology: Area of specialization: Human anatomy and physiology. Teaching responsibilities include Introduction to Kinesiology, Human Anatomy and Physiology I & II, Animal Physiology, as well as upper division major courses in area of specialization.

Political Science: Area of specialization: All areas considered especially comparative politics; public policy; American political behavior; political institutions. Teaching responsibilities include lower and upper division major courses as well as courses in area of specialization.

These are 9-month, full-time, benefits eligible positions starting 15 August 2016. The successful candidates will have a minimum of an earned Ph.D. (or appropriate terminal degree) in the discipline or closely related field, demonstrated teaching experience in the appropriate area, and a commitment to student success in a transdisciplinary environment. Review of applications will commence on November 13, 2015 and continue each Friday thereafter until the positions are filled. Please contact 928-854-9705 with any questions.

Application materials must be submitted electronically (via Word or PDF documents) to lakehavasufaculty@asu.edu and must include a cover letter addressing qualifications for the position, Curriculum Vitae, a summary of relevant teaching experience, and contact information for three references. Please reference Announcement of Vacancy #11410.

Arizona State University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer EEO Survey. Women and minorities are encouraged to apply. ASU’s non-discrimination statement may be found at: https://www.asu.edu/titleIX.

All offers of employment are contingent upon the successful outcome (as determined by the university) of the pre-employment screening activities, including a criminal history check (or a fingerprint check), under Arizona Board of Regents policy 6-709.